

My name is Lavinia Janke. Literature and language have always informed my choices. As a result, I have studied Literature (with Translation) in Germany, taught languages in Spain and I now head an English department in Buckinghamshire. Islip is the first place I have called home in two decades. Being a governor at Dr South's, with a focus on teaching and literacy, seems like the perfect way to return the favour.